On the Cover

Jean-Marie Gouarné shows his OpenOffice::OODoc module and we were so pleased with the look of NeoOffice, the OpenOffice variant that uses the Mac's Aqua interface, that we put it on the cover. We wanted to show the other applications too, including the spreadsheet and presentation creator, but there's only so much space on the front. If you haven't looked at OpenOffice in a while, try another look: it's come a long way and now you can play with the files it creates by using Perl.
